

About the Conference

The NatureServe Conservation Conference 2010 is an international training and education event for the environmental conservation community. Conservation leaders, thinkers and doers come together for three days of education, issue discussion, idea exchange, innovation sharing, and professional networking. Attendees of the conference have one thing in common: a commitment to meet emerging and urgent conservation needs in the United States, Canada, Latin America, the Caribbean, and around the world.

Representing federal and state agencies, non-profit conservation groups, universities, and corporations, the conference brings together natural resource managers, policy makers, scientists, educators, and public officials. Offering approximately 40 workshops, the conference focuses on science, technology and information, conservation action, and leadership and capacity building for conservation professionals. General session and workshop topics range from renewable energy's impact on wildlife to tools for predicting the effects of climate change on biodiversity Past speakers include: Bruce Babbitt, former Governor of Arizona and United States Secretary of the Interior; Thomas E. Lovejoy, PhD, President, The H. John Heinz III Center for Science, Economics and the Environment; Thomas C. Jorling, Vice President of Environmental Affairs, International Paper; Steve Williams, Director, U.S. Fish & Wildlife Service; and many more.

The conference will be held April 26-28, 2010, at the Omni Austin Southpark hotel in Austin, Texas.

Sponsorship Opportunities

Through sponsorship, your organization will demonstrate its commitment to protecting our Earth's unique and wonderful biodiversity. The conference presents your organization with prominent exposure and recognition with key players in the conservation community. Most importantly, sponsorship will show your organization's leadership in effective conservation action through education and collaboration.

Funding opportunities available for this conference include sponsoring general sessions, education tracks, workshops, dinners, lunches, receptions, keynote speakers, coffee breaks, scholarships, and more. Sponsorship levels range from up to $2,500 to $50,000+. Your organization can receive visibility and brand recognition through media outreach, conference promotional materials, web site, and acknowledgement at general sessions, receptions and other public venues.

For more information about becoming a sponsor and the associated benefits to your organization, please contact:

Joe Bond
Chief Development Officer
(703) 908-1840
joe_bond@natureserve.org

Peter Toto
Development Manager
(703) 908-1841
pete_toto@natureserve.org

NatureServe